SPECIALTY COUNCILS

Manufacturers' Advisory Council – The board of associate members advises the ASCC on how the organization can provide the best value to its vendor members. The MAC has a strong voice in all sponsorship decisions that directly affect these companies.

Decorative Concrete Council – The DCC educates contractors on the technical and business aspects of decorative concrete contracting. The Council also promotes decorative concrete to designers, owners and other end users.

Safety & Risk Management Council – This Council educates and provides materials to contractors on all aspects of safety and insurance matters.

The Concrete Polishing Council (CPC) provides standards, education and a professional network for polishing contractors and others in the industry. The primary goals are to furnish education and certification programs for members and to share information with the design and construction community.
